

Conventions and Preliminary Material: Introduction

This opening session of the course will be used to establish some notation and important terminology. We start by reviewing some basic background material which will be used throughout the course. We then define the basic objects of study for the course: Differential Equations and say what it means to solve a differential equation.

MIT OpenCourseWare
<http://ocw.mit.edu>

18.03SC Differential Equations
Fall 2011

For information about citing these materials or our Terms of Use, visit: <http://ocw.mit.edu/terms>.