Please write 250-500 words (total) on the following questions.

1. Please describe one segment of or image from the film Flow that you found powerful. What message did you get from it?
2. Please critically reflect on the message in your own terms. Do you see connections with readings we have done so far on global justice, food security, food sovereignty, the social meaning of food/water, capitalism, labor justice?
3. If you were to teach someone something you learned from the film, what would you tell them?
